

Same Sex Marriages

The Lesbian and Gay Equality Project is a national organisation working toward achieving full social and legal equality for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex people in South Africa. The South African Constitution guarantees equality and freedom for all. Despite this, same sex couples still face the hardship of not being able to be married. This discriminates particularly against poor lesbian and gay people.

The Lesbian and Gay Equality Project will be hosting a reception for members of parliament. Aside from enjoying cocktails and snacks, we will also tell members of parliament more about who we are, what we do and about same sex marriages.

This function will take place in Cape Town on the evening of 29 May 2003. Time and venue will be advised.

Please let us know if:

- I would like to attend;
- I'd like to meet personally with LGEP representatives on the 29 or 30th of May in Cape Town;
- I'd like to receive future information from the LGEP;
